

Look what I've done with an old metal wheelbarrow that I found up the corner of my new garden! I've had to make do with what I could find but I had a few strawberry runners that I'd potted on from one my daughter's plants last autumn which you can see across the front, I found some old radish seed which has already germinated and am trying some spring onions. I don't hold out much hope for those as the packet said "plant by 2016"!! I also have couple of dwarf kale plants coming on in the greenhouse which I intend to pop in and am also trying a short row of carrot "chantenay red core" . It's a little short variety so I'm thinking it won't need the depth. Will let you know how it goes. Keep well and stay safe all of you.
