

March 2021 – Paperweights

At the March Zoom Meeting, Annie suggested looking at glass paperweights as small pieces of art. She had taken photos of her collection and we also watched a short video about the making of millefiori glass paperweights. We were then all eager to show off our own paperweights and discuss where they came from and how they were made. It was interesting to observe the intricate patterns and how the colours change, depending on the light. Elizabeth also told us some interesting facts about the origins of glass paperweights in the UK.
